Bungee Jumping

OVERVIEW

Nepal is the ultimate destination for any adventure sport, including bungee jumping. The first bungee jumping bridge in Nepal is located 160m over the Bhote Koshi river. The suspension bridge is a Swiss made design using more than 6000 metres of steel wire. The bridge that connects two sides of a valley is also the longest suspension bridge in Nepal.

After less than three hours of driving, we reach the bungee jumping site near Barabise. The Tibetan border is just 12 km from the site. The bungee site of Nepal at 160m is one of the most extreme bungee jumping destinations in the world. The jump was designed by experienced bungee professionals from New Zealand and leading jump masters in the bungee business operate the jump.
